Foreword

In November 2005 Serbia and Montenegro started the negotiations of the Stabilization and Association Agreement. This represents a major step in the process of accession to the European Union. In this process experiences of other countries are crucial and most welcomed. European Council has decided in Thessaloniki in June 2003 to include the Western Balkan countries in the Twinning programme. As a result of this decision Serbia is already experiencing close cooperation with the Resident Twinning Advisors who are already in the country, helping their colleagues to overcome the obstacles and to use the opportunities of the process of stabilization and association.

In order to help foreign advisor to adjust easily to the new working environment we have prepared this handbook. This handbook should serve as a guide to the consultants during their term in Serbia. The content of the Handbook varies from general information to specific areas such as traveling, housing, schooling, translation etc.

We would like to use this opportunity to thank the colleagues that helped us to prepare this handbook. Many thanks to director of the Tourism Organization of Belgrade Ms. Olivera Lazović and her associates, Ministry of Health of the Republic of Serbia, Ministry of International Economic Relations, National Tourism Organization of Serbia, as well as to Ms. Ipek S. Gecim, Twinning manager from Delegation of EC to Turkey.

1. Introduction to the Country

The Republic of Serbia, together with the Republic of Montenegro, is a constituent part of the State Union Serbia-Montenegro. Apart from Serbia Proper, the Republic of Serbia contains two Autonomous Provinces: Vojvodina and Kosovo and Metohija (currently under international administration in accordance with the UN Security Council Resolution 1244).

Belgrade is the capital of Serbia and the administrative centre of Serbia and Serbia-Montenegro.

The Republic of Serbia is a democratic state of all its citizens. Its history and achievements make it an integral part of the modern civilisation.

The political system in Serbia is based on parliamentary democracy. Both the State Union and the two republics have their parliament and president. Local government is organized on the principle of local self-administration through municipal or city assemblies, government and administrative bodies.

The legislative branch in Serbia consists of the National Assembly. This body consists of 250 deputies who are nationally elected by popular vote to serve a four-year term and develops legislation. The executive branch in Serbia consists of the President, the Prime Minister, and the Government. The current President of Serbia is Mr. Boris Tadić, leader of the Democratic Party (DS), the Prime Minister is now Mr. Vojislav Koštunica, leader of the Democratic Party of Serbia (DSS).

Belgrade (Beograd) is the capital of Serbia with around 1.6 million inhabitants. It is located in the South-East of Europe, in the Balkan Peninsula, at the confluence of the Sava river and the Danube. It is one of the oldest cities in Europe and since ancient times it has been an important traffic focal point, an intersection of the roads of Eastern and Western Europe. Current mayor of Belgrade is Nenad Bogdanović (DS).

Belgrade is the capital of Serbian culture, education, science and economy. As a result of its tumultuous history, many nations have lived in Belgrade for centuries. The majority of the population are Serbs (86%) of Orthodox confession. The official language is Serbian. Foreigners can easily communicate in English.

2. General Information

The official monetary unit is dinar (CSD).

Belgrade area code for domestic calls is 011, and for international calls it is ++381-11-...

Time zone: Belgrade lies in the central European time zone CET (GMT+1 hour).

The summer daylight saving time is from the end of March to the end of October (GMT+2 hours).

2.1. Weights and Measures; Metric System

Electricity: Voltage 220 V - Frequency 50 Hz. Plugs are continental European standard.

Tap water is safe to drink, but most inhabitants of Belgrade prefer to buy bottled water. Bottled drinking water is always available either in large or small bottles of various brands (5, 1.5 or 0.5L). Majority of them is controlled by reference laboratories licensed by the Ministry of Health, thus reliable.

3. Position, Relief, Climate

Serbia is located in the central part of the Balkan Peninsula, on the most important route linking Europe and Asia, occupying an area of 88,361 sq. km. Serbia is in the West European time zone (one hour ahead of Greenwich time). Its climate is temperate continental, with a gradual transition between the four seasons of the year (warm summers, with temperature up to 35°C and snowy winters, with temperature from - 5°C to 10°C).

The Belgrade climate is moderate continental, with four seasons. The average annual air temperature is 11.9°C. Autumn is longer than spring, with lengthy sunny and warm periods (Indian summer). Winter is not particularly harsh, and averages 21 days with below zero temperatures. January is the coldest month of the year with an average temperature of 0.4°C. Spring is rather short and rainy. Summer starts abruptly. The warmest months are July (30°C), and August (33°C).

Belgrade has a characteristic South-Eastern and Eastern wind called "košava", which brings fair and dry weather. It is most frequent in the autumn and winter, usually lasting for 2-3 days. The average košava speed is 25-43 km/h, particularly when there is a high air pressure over Ukraine and Bessarabia, and low pressure over the Adriatic Sea.

Belgrade has an annual average of 139 days with precipitation, including 27 days of snow. The most intense precipitations are in May and June, and in February they are the least. One-day rains are most frequent. The annual average of precipitations is 667.9 mm. The snow blanket averages 30 to 44 days, and its average thickness is 14-25 cm.

Serbia is referred to as the crossroads of Europe. The international roads and railways passing down its river valleys make up the shortest link between Western and Central Europe, on the one side, and the Middle East, Asia and Africa, on the other. Hence the geopolitical importance of its territory. These roads follow the course of the Morava river valley, splitting in two near the city of Niš. One track follows the valleys of the rivers Southern Morava and Vardar to Thessaloniki; the other - the river Nišava - to Sofia and Istanbul.

Serbian rivers belong to the basins of the Black, Adriatic and Aegean Seas. Three of them, the Danube, Sava and Tisa, are navigable. The longest river is the Danube, which flows through Serbia for 588 of its 2,857 kilometer course. The Danube basin has always been important for Serbia. With the commissioning of the Rhine-Main-Danube Canal in September 1992, the Black Sea and the Near and Far Eastern ports have come much nearer to Europe. Serbia is linked to the Adriatic Sea and Montenegro via Belgrade-Bar railway.

Northern Serbia is mainly flat, while its central and southern areas consist of highlands and mountains. The flatlands are mainly in Vojvodina (the Pannonian Plain and its rim: Mačva, the Sava Valley, the Morava Valley, Stig and the Negotin Marches in Eastern Serbia). Fifty five per cent of Serbia is arable land, and 27 per cent is forested. Fifteen of its mountains reach the heights over 2,000 meters, the highest being Djeravica in the Prokletija range (2,656 m).

Zlatibor Mountain, Serbia

The length of Serbia's border is 2,397 km. To the East, Serbia borders with Bulgaria, to the North-East with Romania, to the North with Hungary, to the West with Croatia and Bosnia and Herzegovina, and to the South with Albania and Macedonia.

4. Population

The ethnic population of the Republic of Serbia is heterogeneous, as a result of the country's turbulent past. The majority of the population of Serbia are Serbs. All citizens have equal rights and responsibilities and enjoy full ethnic equality. Out of approximately 7 million inhabitants of Serbia, the majority of the population are Serbs, but another 37 nationalities also live in its territory. The Constitution of the Republic of Serbia guarantees rights to minorities, in accordance with the highest international standards.

The last 2002 census puts the population of Serbia (excluding Kosovo-Metohija) at 7.498.001, Serbs make up 82.86 percent of the population, Hungarians 3.91 percent, Bosnians 1.82 per cent, followed by Roma 1.44 per cent, Croats 0.94 per cent, Albanians 0.82 per cent, Slovaks 0.79 per cent, Vlachs 0.53 per cent, Romanians 0.46 per cent, Bulgarians 0.27 per cent, etc.

5. Economic and Geopolitical Environment

Serbian society is in transition. Serbia is a member of most international organisations and it is following a market-oriented economic policy since the beginning of transition. To further restructure the economy, the country is in process of privatising a large number of State concerns and accelerating the process of integration with the European Union. The Government's policies are aimed at encouraging export industries, introducing modern business practices based on market economy.

Conditions for economic reforms and optimal development of the industrial sector have been set down, as well as, for privatisation, which is foreseen to finish, according to the Law on Privatisation, by 2007. Large industrial enterprises with financial difficulties are obliged to undertake a programme of restructuring (restructuring of ownership, production processes, technology, organisation and personnel). Foreign partners who are prepared to invest in the Serbian economy have expressed their interest in many of these companies.

The reforms that are currently underway will further improve macroeconomic conditions and provide additional sources of financing, such as direct foreign investments through privatisation, credits approved by the International Monetary Fund, funds approved at the donors' conference in Brussels, credits from the World Bank, etc.

5.1. Serbia and EU Relations

Dialogue between Serbia and Montenegro was established in 2001, when EU established EU-FRY Consultative Task Force (CTF) through which it provided policy advice. The CTF was later replaced by the Enhanced Permanent Dialogue (EPD). The EPD currently monitors and drives reforms on the basis of the European Partnership adopted by the EU Council of Ministers in June 2004 and of the corresponding implementation Plan finalised by Serbia and Montenegro's authorities in December 2004.

In its Feasibility Report of 12 April 2005, the Commission concluded that Serbia-Montenegro is sufficiently prepared to negotiate a Stabilisation and Association Agreement (SAA) with the EU. On 25 April 2005, the EU Council endorsed the Feasibility Report and invited the Commission to submit the negotiation directives for the SAA.

Formal contractual relations between the EU and Serbia-Montenegro will be established through the SAA in the context of the Stabilisation and Association Process (SAP). As confirmed in the Thessaloniki Summit in June 2003 Serbia-Montenegro is a potential candidate country for the EU accession.

On 10 October 2005, the European Union has started the negotiations with Serbia-Montenegro on the Conclusion of the SAA.

Bilateral trade relations with the EU also include the trade in textile and textile products, which is governed by the Textile Agreement signed between the Republic of Serbia and the EU on 31 March 2005. This agreement brings the immediate opening of the EU market for textile and textile products originating from Serbia and Serbia's commitment to phase out its tariffs for the EU textile imports over a period of three years and to apply a zero tariff rate on EU textiles from January 2008 onwards.

7. Religion

The main religion of Serbia is Christian Orthodox. The Serbian Orthodox Church, which has been autonomous since 1219, has played an important role in the development and preservation of the Serbian national identity. Beside the Christian Orthodox population, there are also other religious communities in Serbia: Islamic, Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and others.

7.1. Serbian Orthodox Church

The most important Orthodox Church of Belgrade - the Cathedral Church (Saborna crkva) was built in 1840. Some of the oldest are also the Nikolajevska Church (1745) and the Church of the Holy Mother of God (1783) in Zemun. The monumental St. Sava's Temple (Hram Svetog Save), can receive 12,000 believers. By their importance and look, one can also set apart the churches Ružica and Sveta Petka, St. Marko's Church, Ascension Church (Vaznesenska), Topčider Church and the Church of Alexander Nevsky. In the wider city area there are also two old log-cabin churches in the villages of Vranić and Orašac.

In the Belgrade area and its wider surroundings, there are several monasteries built at the end of the XV century or later, demolished and rebuilt several times, and mostly wholly or partially, renewed in the last two decades. The monasteries of Rakovica, Presentation of the Most Holy Mother of God, Fenek, Rajinovac and Tresije are beautiful monuments of Serbian past. The monasteries in Slanci, Mislođin and Pavlovac on the slopes of the Kosmaj have been partly renewed. The ruins of the Kastaljan monastery are hardly accessible because the road that leads thereto is bad.

There are also several Roman Catholic churches, one synagogue, one mosque and several places of worship of other confessions in Belgrade.

Patriarchate of the Serbian Orthodox Church
(www.spc.yu)

Building of the Patriarchate was built in 1934-1935 and designed by the architect Viktor Lukomski. The building has a square base, it is solid and has monumental forms. On the main façade, against the Cathedral Church, an impressive portico stands out, with low columns and an arched portal above which is a sculpted coat of arms of the Serbian Patriarchate. On the top of this facade, in a niche, is a mosaic composition representing St. John the Baptist. In the east part of the building, there is a chapel dedicated to St. Simeon.

It contains a carved iconostasis, the work of Ohrid masters, bearing icons painted in 1935 by Vladimir Predojević. The Library and Museum of Serbian Orthodox Church are in this building, too.

The Cathedral Church (Saborna crkva)

Kneza Sime Markovića bb

It was built in 1837-1840 by order of Knez Miloš Obrenović, according to the design and plans of A. F. Kverfeld, a builder from Pančevo. It is built in style of classicism with late baroque elements. The church is dedicated to St. Michael the Archangel. The interior is richly decorated. The gold-plated carved iconostasis was made by the sculptor Dimitrije Petrović, while the icons on the iconostasis, thrones, choirs and pulpits, as well as those on the walls and arches were painted by Dimitrije Avramović, one of the most distinguished Serbian painters of the XIX century.

The special value of the church is its treasury and the relics of Serbian saints St. Great Martyr King Uroš and St. Prince Stevan Štiljanović, as well as the heads of the Church and Serbian rulers of the Obrenović dynasty (Miloš, Mihailo and Milan). In front of the main portal are the graves of two famous men of Serbian culture: Dositej Obradović and Vuk Stefanović Karadžić.

8. Customs, Habits and Behaviour

Come to a city where you will feel at home. This is not a tourist slogan but the truth. Belgrade is an unusual mosaic built up by centuries of overlapping civilizations in which everyone finds at least something that reminds him of home, obviously wrapped up in the inimitable Belgrade charm.

There is no place in the world with such a natural combination of oriental passion and European finesse. Having stood on the path of many conquests going both from the East and from the West, Belgrade has been repeatedly destroyed and rebuilt. But it has abundant vitality, sense of humour, curiosity. That's why you will never get bored in Belgrade!

At the introduction, handshaking is important for everyone in the group, both upon arrival and departure. Close friends kiss one another on both cheeks three times upon greeting and departure. When invited to a home for coffee or dinner, a gift of flowers or candies is acceptable. Flowers, especially if they are roses, are always given in odd numbers for good luck.

The usual tip in Belgrade is up to 10%.

9. National Holidays

Holidays - non-working days:

- 1 and 2 January - New Year
- 7 January - first day of Orthodox Christmas

The Serbian Orthodox Church counts its Christian holidays according to the old - Julian calendar, differing from the Gregorian calendar by 14 days.

Slava (Saint's Day), a special day to Serbian people dates from the ninth century. When Serbs accepted Christianity each family started to celebrate its saint protector. Slava (Saint's Day) is traditionally handed over in the family. It is, besides Orthodox Christmas and Easter, the most important holiday of every Serbian family; it is non-working day for people who celebrate it. Some of most celebrated Saint's Days are St. John (20 January), St. George (Djurdjevdan, 6 May), St. Archangel Michael (21 November), St. Nicola (19 December), etc.

13.5. Parking in Belgrade

Parking in Belgrade is very important because there are not enough parking spaces, especially in the peak time during the day. City centre is divided into 3 zones with limited staying time. In this area you have to pay for parking place from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. on working days and on Saturdays from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m.. If you park in the first (red) zone you are allowed to stay there for 60 minutes, in the second (yellow) zone for 120 minutes and in the third (green) zone for 180 minutes. After that time a driver must leave the parking place. In the red zone, in the narrow city centre you pay 35 dinars for an hour. In yellow zone 25 dinars per hour and 20 dinars in the green zone. You can pay by buying a parking ticket at every tobacco and news stand or by sending SMS by your mobile phone. Message that includes registration number typed without spaces should be sent to 9111, 9112, 9113, depending on the zone where you parked. A few moments later you will receive a confirmation of your payment and later a message about the elapsed paid time at parking.

15.2. Housing

The usual practice is to consult real estate agents before renting. Apartments could be found in about a month after arrival. Most of them are rented on a Euro basis.

There are also houses for rent in Belgrade, they can be rented furnished or unfurnished, as well as apartments.

Both apartments and houses are built to a standard acceptable in Europe.

It is recommended to give preference to apartments/houses that contain a central heating system, garage, etc.

15.3. Rents

Rents in Belgrade for housing vary in prices, depending on the location, the use and quality of the structure, parking or elevator, the size, the number of rooms, the view and exposition to sun, etc. However, one can usually find adequate accommodation to suit any budget.

RTAs are reimbursed for their housing expenses within limits set in each beneficiary country. These limits are calculated on the basis of family size and average rent paid for equivalent housing for Commission staff on posting to the delegation in the relevant beneficiary country, Twinning Manual Annex B3, Housing, Page 87.

On a square meter basis, rents for furnished apartments are higher than those for unfurnished apartments. Good unfurnished or furnished apartments in Belgrade are available in the following monthly rental ranges (average):

Family size	Current market prices for unfurnished apartments (max)
Single/couple (no children)	€ 500 approx.
Couple with 1 child	€ 700 approx.
Couple with 2 children	€ 900 approx.
Couple with 3 children	€ 1200 approx.
Couple with 4 children	€ 1500 approx.

The above rents do not include heating and maintenance costs. Normal maintenance and heating costs can range from € 85 to € 150, depending on various characteristics of the apartment (size of the apartment, location, age, individual or collective heating, etc.), to be paid over and above the rent.

15.4. Location

In Belgrade, most of the diplomats' residences are located in the residential areas Dedinje and Senjak. These areas are recommended and chosen because of safety, social functions and availability of services.

There are also neighbourhoods for people wishing to live outside the city in cleaner air, in larger individual housing with gardens.

Suitable apartments can be found in the old (Vračar municipality and Stari grad municipality), as well as the new part of the city (New Belgrade).

16. Medical Health

Medical health system in Serbia is based on obligatory medical insurance. The Public Health System comes under jurisdiction of the Republic Ministry of Health. There are, also, several local agencies of private health insurance (Delta, Dunav and Zepter).

Health system is organized in three levels – primary, secondary and tertiary.

On the level of primary health services, a network of 161 health institutes provides health services to the population on the territory of municipalities. Service of general medicine for adult population, health prevention of the children of school and pre-school age, women's health prevention, dental health prevention and some specializing advisory stations exist in all health institutes. Pharmacies, also, provide services at this level.

Level of secondary health services is secured in general hospitals and health centres within the scope of further specialties: surgery, internal medicine, gynaecology and midwifery, infective diseases, paediatrics and psychiatry, together with the services of radiology, laboratory diagnostics and anesthesiology. It is frequently organized for the territory of a district.

Level of tertiary health services involves highly specialized hospital and non-hospital health protection in the range of its specializations. Some of the hospitals can provide services within one or several specializations or can, depending of the local conditions, provide some services from the secondary level as well. In the centres with medical colleges, these institutions are usually called teaching hospitals.

All levels are obliged to provide services of urgent medical assistance. In Belgrade there is a City Institute for Urgent Medical Assistance (Urgentni centar) which provides these services.

In Belgrade, there are 59 different types of health establishments: 16 health institutes, 4 hospital centres, 3 specialized hospitals, 5 clinics, one Clinical centre of Serbia, 14 institutes with accommodation facilities, 12 institutes without accommodation facilities, 3 institutes for health prevention and Pharmacy institution "Belgrade" with 100 pharmacies. Health institutions with accommodation facilities dispose of 12,035 sick-beds, in total.

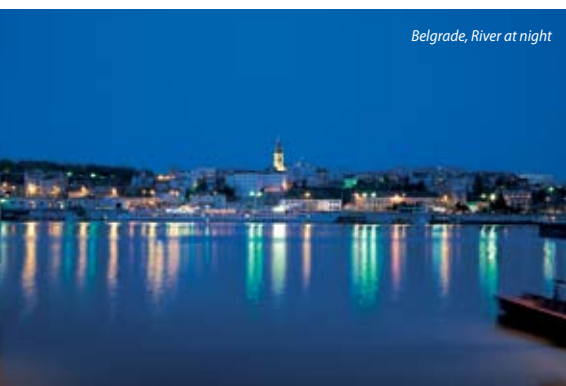

Foreign citizen on temporary work in our country uses benefits of health insurance in accordance with bilateral treaties between the signatory. The terms of bilateral treaties imply the rights from health, pension and invalid insurance and children complement. In the areas of health insurance, natural and money grants are assured. Natural grants refer to use of medical protection, while money grants refer to reimbursement of money tolls due to sickness, maternity and payment for funeral expenses.

Concluded international treaties can, according to the way of reimbursement of health protection which insurants use out of territory of country of work, be divided in three groups:

First group consists of treaties in which principle of insurance is adopted, which means that citizens of contracting countries and their family members can use medical protection, whether they are currently on the territory of the country of labour or on the territory of country of origin shall be the debit of the country of insurance. Our country has signed this type of treaties with Austria, Germany, Netherlands, Italy, France, Belgium, Czech Republic, Luxembourg, Croatia, Macedonia and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Second group consists of treaties with the majority of East European countries (Poland, Bulgaria, Slovak Republic and Hungary) and Great Britain, with which the territorial principle is applied. Namely, the expenses of medical protection are paid by the country on whose territory the insurant temporary resides. The exception is treaty with Hungary with regard to money grants for hospital treatment. The calculation of expenses therefore is conducted between liaison offices of the two countries i.e. the expenses of medical protection are paid by the bearer of insurance of the country whose insurer is in question.

Third group consists of treaties with Scandinavian countries and Switzerland. By their legislature, medical protection outside territory of labour country is not provided. There is a possibility that the expenses of medical protection during temporary stay in Serbia be reimbursed after the return to the country of labour.

Foreign citizens on temporary work in Belgrade can realize the right to medical protection in all medical institutions in state sector of health care. They need to register in the Republic Health Insurance Fund – Branch Belgrade) which is situated in 30, Nemanjina Street, Department for foreign insurance, rooms 110-114, on the first floor, phone: 2641 485.

By obtaining a medical booklet they will be able to open a chart in the first level medical care institution i.e. health institute which is correspondent to the territorial conformity of the insurant's place of residence.

There is also private medical sector in Belgrade, which consists of consulting-rooms (general medicine, stomatology and specialist), pharmacies, laboratories and care. There are several private polyclinics and hospitals. Services in these institutions are charged by price-list.

17. Shopping

17.1. Generalities

In Belgrade you can shop from home (teleshop), a little less using the Internet, or experience some “live shopping”.

Shopping areas have all necessary prerequisites for providing the clients with various high quality goods, imported as well as domestic brands. Besides shopping, you can also enjoy in numerous restaurants and cafés, visit some of the cultural and entertainment events for children or adults.

Shopping opportunities are many and varied. Large and luxurious Western-style shopping malls and supermarkets are gaining momentum in Serbia, but there is also a more time-consuming, traditional way of buying apples from the green-grocer, meat from the butcher, bread from the bakery.

Major credit cards (Visa, MasterCard, Diners Club and American Express) are accepted in many, but not all, up-scale establishments in Serbia. It is always best to inquire in advance.

17.2. Shopping Zones (Shopping in Belgrade)

Knez Mihailova St. - Trg Republike

The Knez Mihailova pedestrian zone extending from Trg Republike to Kalemegdan is a pivotal element of the commercial geography and everyday life of Belgrade.

TERAZIJE - KRALJA MILANA - SLAVIJA

Not less exclusive than the shopping zone mentioned above, at least in the area around Terazije Square. International and local brands can be found in the stores lining along one and a half kilometer. Exclusiveness falls as you get closer to Slavija square but so do the prices.

ČUMIĆEVO SOKAČE shopping centre

(entrance from Terazije and from Makedonska, Dečanska and Nušićeva)

Bulevar Kralja Aleksandra

If someone tells you "I bought it in the Boulevard", you should know that this is the boulevard in question. It is also the longest street in Belgrade (8.2 km), but you will experience the magic of Belgrade shops even after a couple of kilometers. Unlike other places in the city, this shopping street offers literally everything - all types of goods, all quality ranges and price levels. As a residue of the past, you will have the opportunity of doing some trading in the street, like in an open-air bazaar, working every day regardless of the weather.

Belgrade Fair

Some of the large halls at the Belgrade Fair have been permanently converted into a shopping centre with countless little shops dealing in clothing, technical devices, cosmetics, food and all sorts of useful gadgets. The main advantage of this BAZAAR (as it is officially called) is that it is open Sundays as well. The Belgrade Fair is a great place to shop when various fairs are staged and especially during the "New Year Fair".

Some insist that New Belgrade is nothing but a "big bedroom" except for those parts where it's a "big salesroom". The most exclusive offer in the whole of Belgrade is probably to be found in the numerous boutiques of the "Sava Centre" or in the shops located in the "Hyatt" and "Intercontinental" hotel. For those seeking to pay much, much less, there are two great alternatives: "Piramida" shopping centre and the "Open air shopping centre" which is a euphemism hiding a bazaar.

Skiing is available at the mountains all around Serbia, most popular being Kopaonik, Tara etc.

The hunting grounds in Serbia are highly reputed in Europe. In the Belgrade area there are several hunting grounds with big and small game:

- Hunting grounds of the Zemun Hunting Society - total area 30 hectares, assorted game: roe deer, boar, hare, pheasant and partridge.
- Hunting grounds Crni lug - total area 817 hectares, deer and boar are reared and hunted.

Lido Island, The Danube

Serbia is abundant in rivers and artificial lakes rich in fish, as well as many fisheries. In the Belgrade area fishing is possible in numerous localities along the Danube and the Sava, as well as on the ponds of the Pančevački Rit. Individual fishing is permitted, but a license valid for one to seven days must be procured beforehand.

A city like Belgrade with two rivers, surrounded by a sea of green certainly does not lack space for active recreation, some of recommended places are:

- The Danube and Sava river
- Ada Ciganlija
- Mt. Avala
- Košutnjak Hill
- Topčider Park

25. Employment

Employment possibilities for the spouses of expatriates may be limited, though this can be found on a case-by-case basis. Many diplomats are welcome as academic staff at the English-speaking Universities in Belgrade.

26. Twinning

Twinning is a form of close cooperation of an EU Member/Candidate Country and a country in the process of the EU accession, with a view to strengthening legal capacities of that country. This cooperation envisages occasional visits of public administration experts from the Member/Candidate Country to the relevant institution in the partner country, with a previously clearly defined need and aim of that visit. Twinning projects are based on a small number of key principles. As a rule, the beneficiary countries (BC) choose their Member State (MS) partners.

Twinning became a part of preparations for the EU membership of applicant countries back in 1998, under the same conditions that were set for those countries by the PHARE programme. This programme offered, among other things, financial support to the candidate countries from Central and Eastern Europe, with the aim to strengthen their administrative capacities. Ever since the summer 2002, Twinning has been applied in the framework of financial assistance programme to the Western Balkan countries, CARDS (Community Assistance for Reconstruction, Development and Stabilization). As opposed to the practice commonly applied on the Eastern and Central European countries whose partners in this programme were exclusively EU Member States, the new rules, defined at the European Council's Summit in Thessaloniki in June 2003, a Western Balkan country's twinning partner can be a candidate country as well as an EU Member State. The new rule applies to ten countries that became the EU members on 1 May 2004 and three candidate countries (Bulgaria, Romania and Turkey).

More information about Twinning can be found on the following addresses:

www.europa.eu.int

www.seio.sr.gov.yu

26.1. Serbian National Contact Point - NCP

National contact point (NCP) for Twinning is the European Integration Office.

Specifically, the BC NCP has the role of:

- The central point of communication between the Commission and the BC. Also, the central contact point for other BC and MS NCPs;
- Channeling information to BC Ministries and other relevant bodies and coaching them on the process and development of Twinning projects;
- Co-ordination of administration of all Twinning activities in the BC and resolving any horizontal administrative obstacles;
- Attending Commission meetings with other BC and MS NCPs.

Reconstruction of the Government of Serbia in 2004 has brought into existence the Serbian European Integration Office – SEIO (Decision of the Government of the Republic of Serbia of 8 March 2004, published in the Official Journal No. 25/04). Serbian Government recognized the fact that high positioning of activities relating to the EU association needed a strong institutional framework, which resulted in the establishment of SEIO. In other words, SEIO was established following the need for a strong authority that would efficiently coordinate the EU association process. Essentially, SEIO would build on the activities that were the responsibility of the European Integration Department of the Serbian Ministry of International Economic Relations. Thus, the establishment of SEIO presented a clear institutional determination of the Government to accelerate preparations for the EU integration.

The main tasks of SEIO are the following: coordinating, initiating, monitoring and reporting on the process of harmonization of Serbian legislation with the acquis communautaire; planning, monitoring and promotion of institutional capacities of the Republic of Serbia considering the needs resulting from the EU association process and in cooperation with the relevant public administration bodies and organizations; coordination of trainings for civil servants on the EU matters; initiating, coordinating and monitoring public relations and promotion of activities relating to the EU association process. In addition to this, the Office provides technical support and organizes meetings of the Serbian Council for European Integration, manages the work of the Committee for Coordination of the EU Association Process, liaises with the European Integration Office of Serbia-

Montenegro and respective institutions in Montenegro, and provides logistic support to the EI Committee of the Serbian Parliament.

26.2. Serbia-Montenegro and European Agency for Reconstruction – Role of EAR

The European Agency for Reconstruction's task is to manage the European Union's main assistance programmes in Serbia-Montenegro. The new European Commission-funded programmes managed by the Agency are designed to support good governance, institution building and the rule of law as well the development of a market economy while investing further in critical physical infrastructure and environmental protection. They also focus on social development and the strengthening of civil society. The purpose of these efforts is to reinforce the region's own reform processes by strengthening the 'state machinery' of central and local administration, the police, the judiciary, public finances, and state utility providers.

The programmes managed by the European Agency for Reconstruction in Serbia-Montenegro are a part of the European Union's effort to deepen political and economic dialogue with the State Union and bring it closer to eventual EU membership. This is part the EU's wider strategy toward Serbia-Montenegro.

26.3. Ministry of International Economic Relations-DACU Role

Ministry of International Economic Relations of the Republic of Serbia/ Development Aid Coordination Unit (MIER/DACU) is in charge of coordinating the international assistance to the Republic of Serbia, which includes preparation of inter-sectoral documents to be presented to the international community, inter-sectoral prioritization, organization of donor coordination meetings and events, facilitating the programming of international assistance, maintaining the information system on grant and soft loan financed projects from the year 2000 onwards and other coordination activities aimed at effective and efficient use of available donor funds.

With that respect, DACU established the ISDA CON (Inter-sectoral Development Aid Coordination Network) as an operative working group comprised of representatives of all line ministries, and lead by the policy inputs of the Steering Committee for Development Assistance, comprising the Prime Minister and a number of Ministers. The data on externally funded projects, including the analysis and different reports according to the main stakeholders' reporting requirements are being produced within the Information System on Foreign Aid Management, and can be publicly viewed on the web page <http://emis.mier.sr.gov.yu/emis>. This information system belongs to the Government of Serbia, and within the cooperation of the Ministry of International Economic Relations and the SEIO. From 1 January 2007 it will be promoted into the portal for EU integrations of the Government of Serbia on the address: <http://www.evropa.sr.gov.yu> (Serbian version) and <http://www.europe.sr.gov.yu> (English version).

The main orientation of DACU in the following period will be the involvement in the development of planning procedures for the management of future EU assistance as well as facilitation of the donor harmonization and alignment process.

Project Assistant for the Resident Twinning advisor (RTA)

To facilitate the work of the RTA, a full time assistant (local national) who deals with translation, interpretation and other general project issues on a daily basis can be recruited.

RTA Assistant Recruitment

Recruitment must take place in accordance with standard rules for subcontracting. Beneficiary country might want to consider recruiting the project assistant from their own administration. The advantage of this solution is to have an assistant with "in-house" knowledge.

Tasks of RTA Assistant

The RTA assistant will deal on a daily basis with the following tasks:

- Translation
- Interpretation
- Other project management tasks

Salary of RTA Assistant

Gross salary for RTA assistants can range around €1,200 per month gross.

26.4. Serbia-Montenegro and European Commission

The Delegation represents the European Commission, the European Union's executive body. The Delegation facilitates the development of political and economic relations between the European Union and the State Union of Serbia-Montenegro in the framework of the Stabilization and Association Process, which is the new EU policy designed to help the State Union integrate into the European mainstream, with the prospect of eventual becoming a member of the European Union.

Informing the authorities, institutions, media and citizens of Serbia-Montenegro about the integration process and about EU institutions and policies is a key task of the Delegation.

The Delegation of the European Commission to Serbia has a bilingual site (Serbian and English), and it is updated regularly. For more information see www.eudelyug.org.
